Strategic Equality Plan Welsh Language Commissioner 2020-2024

1 Equality Act 2010

1.1 The Equality Act 2010 protects people with particular characteristics within specific groups as follows:

- Age (in the context of the workplace only)
- Disability (or on the basis of something connected to their disability)
- Gender reassignment
- Marriage and civil partnership (for employment matters)
- Pregnancy and maternity
- Race
- Religion and belief
- Sex
- Sexual orientation.

General Duty

1.2 The general duty came into force on 5 April 2011 and its aim is to ensure that public authorities and those executing public functions consider how they can make a positive contribution to a fairer society by promoting equality and good relations in their day to day activities.

1.3 Under the general duty public bodies are required to have due regard to the need to:

- eliminate discrimination, harassment, victimisation and any other conduct that is prohibited by or under the Act;
- advance equality of opportunity between persons who share a relevant protected characteristic and persons who do not share it; and
- foster good relations between persons who share a relevant protected characteristic and persons who do not share it.

1.4 Under the Act, Welsh Ministers have also specified *Public Sector Specific Equality Duties*¹. The specific duties in Wales include:

- Equality objectives
- Strategic Equality Plans
- Engagement
- Impact assessment
- Information about equality
- Information about employment

02

- Pay difference
 - Staff training
 - Procurement
- 1.5 This Strategic Equality Plan meets these requirements and the Commissioner will continue to give them due regard in the implementation of the Plan and day to day work.
- 1.6 The Strategic Equality Plan sets out the Commissioner's direction in relation to equality and diversity for the next four years. It also states how the general public sector equality duty is to be met.
- 1.7 There is an action plan linked to the plan which gives direction to the work over the plan period. However it is important to note that some activities from year to year will identify further work to be undertaken under this plan. The Commissioner's annual planning work on his corporate operational plan will also identify areas of work relevant to this plan. As a result, the Commissioner views the action plan as a living document which will be reviewed and updated on an annual basis.
- 1.8 Part 1 of the Equality Act 2010 requires specified public bodies to consider how their strategic decisions might help to reduce socio-economic inequalities – leading, for example, to discrimination in occupation, educational opportunities or residency. This is referred to as the socio-economic duty. The Welsh Government is committed to introducing the socio-economic duty by 1 April 2020.

2 How this Strategic Equality Plan has been developed

Wales Public Bodies Equality Partnership

- 2.1 A number of public bodies were keen to work collaboratively to agree common objectives and to develop a blended approach, including sharing resources, knowledge and expertise. This approach promotes smarter working and enables the partners to broaden their processes of engagement with stakeholders and communities. Uniting behind joint objectives has the potential to influence further collaboration and the sharing of practice, promoting wider impact across the public sector and public services in Wales and contributing significantly to tackling inequalities and the 'prevention agenda'. The joint equality objectives, as well as outcomes and measurement methods are shown in Appendix 2.
- 2.2 In line with the recommendations of the Equality and Human Rights Commission and the Welsh Government, the duty represents an opportunity for public sector bodies in Wales to work together to identify and ensure that they have a shared influence over the challenges identified in the report 'Is Wales fairer?', 2018.
- 2.3 This collaborative work reflects the principles of The Well-being of Future Generations (Wales) Act and will contribute directly to the national well-being goal of 'A more equal Wales'. Throughout the work of the partnership, the sustainable development principle and the five ways of working will be used and evidence of this is recorded. Public bodies involved in the partnership:
 - Velindre University NHS Trust
 - Cardiff and Vale University Health Board
 - Health and Education Improvement Wales
 - Sport Wales
 - Arts Council of Wales
 - Careers Wales
 - Higher Education Funding Council Wales
 - National Museum Wales
 - Natural Resources Wales
 - Welsh Language Commissioner
 - Welsh Revenue Authority
- 2.4 The overall aim of this partnership is to agree and commit to reviewing impact against the shared objectives over the long term and to work together to understand the collective impact by agreeing transparent outcome measures, with each organisation integrating them with their own strategic objectives.
- 2.5 Following a review of existing Strategic Equality Plans, the current landscape and literature, a series of evidence papers were produced by the partnership with emerging common themes/issues across the sector in terms of:

- Increasing the diversity of the workforce
- Reducing pay gaps
- Community engagement
- Ensuring that procurement informs equality
- Ensuring services reflect individual needs

Engagement and consultation

2.6 The above common themes were developed into long-term, high level equality co-objectives. As part of the development of the Public Sector Equality Groups' Strategic Equality Plan, the partnership commissioned a third sector partner to assist in meaningful engagement and consultation with individuals and groups who share 'protected characteristics' and those who do not. A summary of the engagement and public consultation undertaken by the partnership is set out below:

- Three regional stakeholder events were held, in north, west and south east Wales. They included individuals and groups from all aspects of the protected characteristics
- An online consultation via a third sector partner in conjunction with promotion across the Public Sector Equality Group's networks and internal mechanisms, in the form of a survey
- Individual organisations held internal engagement events and focus groups with their own staff – these figures are not included in this report.

2.7 In order to ensure accessibility, documents were available through the medium of Welsh, easy read versions, British Sign Language and child-friendly versions. In addition, public participants were reimbursed for travel, child care, supply care and any other relevant expenses as required.

2.8 The Commissioner has engaged with and consulted officers to inform the review of the objectives. This Strategic Equality Plan sets out how the Commissioner will continue to ensure that, as an employer, those principles that underpin equality and fairness are put in place. The Plan also sets out how the Commissioner, in implementing his or her powers, will understand and include everyone, regardless of whether or not they have protected characteristics.

3 The Welsh Language Commissioner's Strategic Equality Objectives

Objective 1

The Commissioner will increase the diversity and inclusiveness of the workforce

- 3.1 The Commissioner will reflect a fair and inclusive environment, where all officers can feel valued and have the same opportunities to fulfil their potential within the organisation.
- 3.2 Information on the workforce in relation to the protected characteristics needs to be collated and analysed in order to fulfil specific public sector duties (the Equality Regulations for Wales) and therefore to address any instances of discrimination in the workforce and promote equality of opportunity. The Commissioner has a basic level of knowledge of the protected characteristics of his officers. Gaps in information need to be addressed.
- 3.3 The Commissioner is an organisation that operates internally through the medium of Welsh. There is also a requirement for each officer to have the ability to communicate orally and in writing through the medium of Welsh. The Commissioner will therefore consider this objective in the context of the linguistic requirements of his workforce.

The work of the partnership over the four years:

- 3.4 In conjunction with the Wales Public Bodies Equality Partnership over the period of the plan the Commissioner will contribute to the work of:
 - Standardising data collection processes to enable benchmarking to ensure consistency in data analysis and reporting.
 - Remove barriers and improve recruitment and selection policies, procedures and practices through an equalities lens.
 - Ensure that values and behaviours promote a fair, equitable and inclusive environment throughout the organisation.
 - Develop joint initiatives to target unrepresented groups to increase employability e.g. work experience, mentoring opportunities, apprenticeship, an academy, internships

In 2020/21 the Commissioner will:

- 3.5 consult with his officers on linking the equality data to the human resources system, to enable him to better deliver workforce equality profile reports and identify areas for consideration;
- 3.6 review its analysis of successful job applicants by protected characteristics and publish the analysis, if appropriate.

- 3.7 review the methodology for collecting equalities data from applicants for existing posts and officers to improve the response rate and develop the evidence base.
- 3.8 The findings of the first year's work under this objective will be used to set out actions for subsequent years of the plan. These will be discussed with officers and approved by the Commissioner's Management Team.

Primary responsibility – Senior Human Resources Officer.

Relevant protected characteristics: This objective applies to the nine protected groups.

Objective 2

The Commissioner will address pay gaps

- 3.9 Not all of the Commissioner's officers have shared their equality data in 2018/19. The information presented in this section is based on an assumption of gender identity in order to reflect the entire workforce. As at 31 March 2019, the Commissioner employed 44 officers. 28 of the labour force were assumed to be female. See data on the gender demographics of the directors and officers as at 31 March 2019 in annex 1, there is also information there regarding the gender pay gap of the Commissioner's workforce. This information shows that the gender pay gap of 31 March 2019 to 31 March 2018 has changed in favour of female officers.
- 3.10 As a small organisation the Commissioner is aware that individual recruitment outcomes can lead to major differences. For example the appointment of a male commissioner is going to have a significant impact on the overall gender pay gap.²
- 3.11 The Commissioner is already implementing a range of policies to remove barriers to employment or career progression among staff. There is considerable flexibility for all staff, such as flexible hours, caring holidays and a flexible working policy.
- 3.12 The Commissioner is proud of the continuing success in attracting a high number of female officers.

The work of the partnership over the four years:

3.13 In conjunction with the Wales Public Bodies Equality Partnership over the period of the plan the Commissioner will contribute to the work of:

- Sharing and standardising systems for collating and analysing data across the organisations, supporting staff to disclose information.
- Sharing its methodology for defining and collating pay gaps, interpretation / communication³.
- Standard rounding off methodology.
- Sharing strategies for workforce planning.

²The First Minister of Wales appoints the Commissioner

Relevant protected characteristics: This objective applies to the protected characteristic of sex

Objective 3

The Commissioner will engage with the community

- 3.22 In carrying out the Rights Day campaign on 7 December 2020, specific targeting work will be undertaken for those protected groups for whom we know that receiving services through the medium of Welsh from public organisations can be a need, and not a preference.
- 3.23 Work with the Wales Public Sector Equality Partnership to identify opportunities for promoting the Welsh language within any event with the public and groups representing the nine protected groups in order to ensure that they receive information about the Commissioner's functions.

Primary responsibility – Senior Communications Officer

Objective 4

Ensure that equality is part of the procurement / commissioning process and is managed throughout the delivery process.

- 3.24 The Commissioner will ensure that equality is embedded in the existing principles of procurement and that evidence of them is recorded.
- 3.25 The Terms of Contract for Services for the Commissioner state that suppliers are expected to comply with the Equality Act 2010. The Commissioner ensures that suppliers are fully aware of his equality responsibility by including it in tender specifications and testing their understanding in the selection process (where it is relevant to the work). As the Commissioner procures through Sell to Wales he will take advantage of agreed public sector protocols in applying equality to the contracting process.
- 3.26 Annual quality review arrangements will examine samples of work / projects completed by a third party on behalf of the Commissioner in order to verify whether the supplier has made arrangements to meet the General Equality Duty. Relevant protected characteristics: This objective applies to all protected groups.

Objective 5

Ensure that individual needs are reflected in the operation of functions.

3.30 The Commissioner will ensure that people and good practice are shared to actively influence the implementation of his functions to meet individual needs. The Commissioner will continue to make adaptations when possible, for people within protected characteristic groups with a view to ensuring that they are not under any disadvantage compared to any other person during the process of considering their complaint or in any other dealings with the Commissioner.

3.31 Where the Commissioner's involvement with the public is significant, such as complaints, the Commissioner will increase the information on the people involved with the organisation, through more detailed data collection, monitoring and analysis, and use the information to identify any areas where improvements can be made. This may be in the form of a review of the characteristics of complainants.

3.32 The Commissioner will keep a record of equality issues by monitoring complaints (whether regarding an organisation which has a duty to comply with a language plan or standards or not) and complaints against the Commissioner.

3.33 The Commissioner will ensure that his officers respect the principles of equality and that they are a consideration in performing their roles.
